7 Ways to Grow Your Fun

Enjoy tunes, treats, tours and more at the Epcot® International Flower & Garden Festival, March 6th to June 3rd.<sup>1</sup>

Floral butterflies and topiary flower towers measuring 9' wide welcome Guests to the Epcot International Flower & Garden Festival this year. "We wanted to immerse our Guests in color," says Eric Darden, Horticulture Manager, Epcot Flower & Garden Festival. "It's a beautiful photo op!" And that's just the beginning of the experiences waiting throughout the Park. From concerts to culinary experiences, playgrounds to scavenger hunts, there are activities and events for the entire family to enjoy. Most events are included with your admission to Epcot, but availability is limited for some events, so make your plans early by visiting FreshEpcot.com.

1 MUSIC THAT'LL GROW ON YOU

This year, the popular Garden Rocks™ Concert Series at the America Gardens Theatre near the American Adventure Pavilion has expanded to seven nights per week. Check FreshEpcot.com to see which artists will be performing this year and be sure to check out the Garden Rocks Dining Package and take advantage of your Cardmember savings of 10% off your dining experience most days at select locations in Epcot and receive a guaranteed seat for the concert.<sup>2,3</sup> Dave Kesting, General Manager, Food and Beverage and Festivals, Epcot at Walt Disney World® Resort, recommends making reservations early online at FreshEpcot.com or by calling 1-407-WDW-DINE.

2 TREAT YOUR TASTE BUDS

Outdoor Kitchens return to this year's Festival with menus that highlight spring! Plans to add three new Kitchens are underway and Disney Chefs are hard at work finalizing menus. Be on the lookout for a new citrus-inspired Outdoor Kitchen. Here, you'll be able to find the Orange Bird Souvenir Cup, which is only available during the Festival. To tempt your sweet tooth, be sure to speed on over to Taste Track, which is located next to Test Track, to try a Guest favorite—croissant donuts. And—if you love tea, you'll want to make reservations for the Royal Tea Garden tour at the United Kingdom Pavilion. The 40-minute tour ends with—what else—tea and scones. The tour is only offered during the Festival, so make your reservation early by calling 1-407-WDW-DINE.

3 TAKE TIME TO PLAY

Kids can work off some energy at two new interactive play areas including the Healthy Living Playground by the Imagination Pavilion. "There's lots of room to run and climb. We built a musical maze filled with instruments. It's one of the best Playgrounds we've ever done," Darden says. "The new Toy Story Garden Playground, located at East Future World, features a new topiary of Bo Peep and her three-headed sheep from Toy Story 4. She's going to be gorgeous."

4 BE SURE TO BUZZ AROUND

Join in Spike's Pollination Exploration, a scavenger hunt for Spike the Bee, the lively little Character who bugged Donald Duck in a series of 1940s and '50s cartoons. Simply purchase a map at select merchandise locations, spot Spike hidden throughout World Showcase and turn the map in for a prize. "Guests really love Spike, so we're introducing an entire line of Spike the Bee merchandise this year," Kesting adds.

5 GO BEHIND THE SEEDS

This year, Cardmembers enjoy special savings on the Behind the Seeds tour at The Land Pavilion. A separately-ticketed event, the one-hour walking tour takes you backstage to watch the horticulturists and arborists at work. "You'll see

"I love the process of working as a team to develop what the Guests experience during the Festival. But really, the Earth is the star here."

—Dave Kesting, General Manager, Food and Beverage and Festivals, Epcot at Walt Disney World® Resort

a variety of growing methods from hydroponics (growing plants without soil) to aquaculture, drip irrigation and ultraviolet lights. Please call 1-407-WDW-TOUR to book your tour.

6 TOP OFF YOUR FUN WITH TOPIARIES

"Every year, there's a topiary that blows people away," Darden says. "This year, I'm guessing it's going to be Kermit the Frog. One day, we were walking near the France Pavilion and someone said, 'it's too bad we can't put Kermit here.' Then someone else added, 'too bad we can't have him on a bike.' Before you know it, Kermit's on a topiary bicycle! We had no idea how to make it work, but we did!"

7 GIFTS THAT'LL GROW ON YOU

Remember your visit with a wealth of colorful and fun merchandise ranging from plants and garden décor to apparel and accessories. Add some buzz to your home with new Spike the Bee products and don't forget the Orange Bird Souvenir Cup. Take advantage of your Cardmember savings of 10% off select merchandise purchases of $50 or more at select locations to bring home a gift for your garden or patio!<sup>4</sup>

A Banquet of Experiences

This spring, schedule a visit to Disney California Adventure® Park at the Disneyland® Resort to explore new flavors and entertainment being served for your pleasure. You'll discover an amazing array of the best of California's rich agricultural heritage. The Festival is all about paying tribute to what makes the state so dynamic," says Gary Maggetti, General Manager, Disney California Adventure® Park. "It has become so popular with our Guests, we've added 12 days to the schedule this year."

DISCOVER TWO NEW MARKETPLACES

This year, two new Marketplaces serving delicious samplings of cuisine inspired by California add to the more than a dozen Marketplaces to check out. Maggetti hints that one of them is all about enjoying vegetarian and vegan delights. And berry lovers will be in heaven with new cuisine featuring a variety of fresh berries. Check disneyland.com/food-and-wine for more information on the tasty treats in store.

SAY CHEERS AND LIFT A GLASS

Toast the Golden State or each other with samplings of California-crafted beer, wine, spirits and themed non-alcoholic beverages at the Marketplaces, including Uncorked California or California Craft Brews.

LET US ENTERTAIN YOU

Every evening during the Festival, musical groups perform on the Palisades Stage at Paradise Garden Park. "We also have groups performing at the Paradise Garden Bandstand throughout the day," Maggetti adds. In addition to musical performances, you'll find culinary seminars and celebrity chef demonstrations scheduled on the Palisades Stage on weekends. The demos are separately-ticketed events and fill up fast, so visit disneyland.com/food-and-wine to make reservations early.

"The Festival feels like a big party all day long...a party for the entire family!"

COOK UP FUN WITH THE KIDS

"We've planned activities for every age," Maggetti says. "Chef hats are given to every child who walks through the turnstile and there's a Junior Chef program hosted by Chef Goofy several times daily at the Hollywood Pictures Backlot where kids help Goofy with a cookie baking project."

KEEP IT SIMPLE

Available for the first time to non-Annual Passholders, Guests can now purchase a Sip & Savor Pass. The pass gives you an opportunity to enjoy a variety of selections of food or non-alcoholic beverages at the Festival Marketplaces of your choice. Be sure to get your Sip & Savor Pass at select locations when you come to the Festival.

TAKE THE FESTIVAL HOME

Take advantage of your Cardmember savings of 10% off select merchandise purchases of $50 or more at select locations to bring home merchandise featuring this year's Festival logo and designs.<sup>4</sup> You'll also find cookbooks, cookware and tasty treats, as well as shirts with whimsical messages which make perfect gifts for the foodies in your family.

"With a nature film like Penguins, it's more as if you're sculpting and taking away footage bit by bit to shape the story at the heart of it."

—Roy Conli, Producer

A Star is Hatched

Follow Steve the penguin and his adventures in Disneynature's new film, Penguins, in theaters April 17th.

Which came first, the chicken or the egg—or in this case, the penguin or the story? That is the dilemma filmmakers face when shooting in nature: how to create a story when you don't know the plot, who the cast of characters are or even who your leading man will be.

"We spent about three years shooting in Antarctica," says Producer Roy Conli, "We had hundreds of hours of film to distill into a 70-minute story. With a nature film, it's a lot like sculpting. You are taking away footage bit by bit to find and shape the story."

"Once in Antarctica, our film teams journaled what was going on, including descriptions of the different creatures' personalities and behaviors looking for a breakout character. Steve, the Adélie penguin, showed up fairly early in the shooting. He was just this hyperactive little guy with a very perky personality. First of all, Adélie penguins are very small compared to Emperor penguins. We first noticed Steve walk into a group of Emperor penguins looking for his own group. It was pretty funny to watch this guy, who's about 19" tall, walk into a crowd of birds twice his size and watch his interactions with the Emperor penguin chicks. He really was the inspiration for the film," says Conli.

of three years, filmmakers amassed more than 900 camera days, capturing individual stories in the chaos of colonies numbering up to 500,000 Adélie penguins. Temperatures dropped below -45 degrees Fahrenheit on several occasions, with winds twice topping 150 miles per hour while filmmakers were on location. It's a savage environment, but it's stunning, too. When you see how nature molds and crafts an environment that is so awesome and unique, you fall in love with it."

Every one of the eight theatrical films released by Disneynature has made an impact on conservation. They support wildlife and environments featured in each film by donating a portion of ticket sales raised on Earth Day to a relevant environmental group. The films are also impactful in raising general audience awareness of various animals and environments facing challenges. "This is my third Disneynature project and I'm so proud of it," Conli concludes. "I hope Penguins will show audiences just how beautiful, and yet fragile, Antarctica is. It's a wonder and a treasure and essential to us all."

Dumbo Flies Again

Share a story of hope and triumph when Dumbo, a new live-action film, soars into theaters March 29th.

How does a story change when told from a different point of view? That was the question that intrigued Ehren Kruger, screenwriter, when he began crafting the script for Dumbo, the new live-action film from Disney and visionary director, Tim Burton.

"Dumbo (1941) has always been my favorite of the classic Disney animated films," Kruger says. "I love its simplicity and purity. I didn't want to change the classic story, just view it through a different lens. The original film unfolds from the animals' point of view. I wondered what the story would be like if we looked at it from a human perspective—seeing how the discovery of a flying elephant would resonate with a human circus family."

Max Medici (Danny DeVito), the owner of a struggling small circus, enlists former circus star Holt Farrier (Colin Farrell) and his children Milly (Nico Parker) and Joe (Finley Hobbins) to care for a newborn elephant whose oversized ears make him a laughingstock. When they discover that Dumbo can fly, the circus makes an incredible comeback. Although success and fame test the charming pachyderm and the family in unexpected ways, their bonds stay strong, proving Milly's words, "We're all family here, no matter how small."

A REALISTIC CIRCUS WORLD

"We wanted to create a realistic circus world we could really believe existed. Animals are part of that circus world, so they had to look and feel as real as the humans in the film. Thanks to new technology and state-of-the-art visual effects, we could achieve that sense of reality. But to create realistic animals means none of them speak," Kruger points out. "Dumbo is incredibly expressive without using language and we stayed true to that throughout the film. That means no mean-spirited comments from matronly elephants, no wise-cracking crows and no fast-talking, cheeky Timothy Mouse. Instead, the human children become Dumbo's confidants and the friends who discover he can fly."

"Overall, in this new film, humans are far more involved with Dumbo than in the original film where the ringmaster and clowns are only involved to the degree that they exploit Dumbo. In our film, we wanted to populate the circus with a menagerie of human performers," Kruger explains. "Once you start thinking realistically about how this baby elephant would exist—like who would take care of him—you realize there would be an elephant trainer. Enter Holt and his family. But like Dumbo, they too, face challenges. Dumbo's journey of empowerment becomes an inspiration and a healing force for everyone."

EXPANDING THE STORY

The original film is one of the shortest in the Disney canon of classics, running at only about 60 minutes. "We needed to expand the story, and telling it from a human point of view also helped us do that," Kruger explains. "The original film ends with Dumbo's triumph. But I was always interested in what happened next. In the new film, Dumbo discovers his aerodynamic talents earlier, so that the second half of the story explores that question in more depth—both for Dumbo and the human family."

"One of the litmus tests for me is the question 'is this story worth retelling?'" Kruger says. "I believe Dumbo's theme applies to any era." Kruger uses a moment from the film as an example, "Dumbo is preparing to make his big debut. The whole world is waiting to see him. Dumbo has gone through a lot to get to this moment and he feels both incredible fear and great triumph. It's as if two emotions are colliding, 'I know

"The main theme of Dumbo is that often the thing we view as our greatest weakness is also our greatest strength and what makes us unique and special."

—Ehren Kruger, Screenwriter

what I'm capable of, but even now I doubt myself and wonder where this talent will take me."

"I think we've all had moments like that," Kruger concludes. "We've all had to overcome self-doubt. We see ourselves in Dumbo and his flight. I think that's why this story will always have wings."

Let your heart soar when you share Dumbo's story of hope and wonder with your family this spring. # Ready, Set, Celebrate

Join the fun at the Disneyland® Resort and Walt Disney World® Resort during Mickey and Minnie Mouse's 90th Anniversary celebration.<sup>1</sup>

Pack your Mickey Mouse ears and get ready to join the party as we celebrate Mickey and Minnie Mouse and the laughter and joy they've brought to the world for 90 years.

YOU'LL BE ALL EARS

At Disneyland® Park at the Disneyland® Resort, move to the beat every night during "Get Your Ears On—A Mickey & Minnie Mouse Celebration" and experience Mickey's Mix Magic, the biggest, most immersive nighttime show with lots of magic in store and on select nights, a fireworks spectacular that'll have you smiling from ear to ear. The whole Park becomes one big party, with vivid projections, lights and lasers on Main Street, U.S.A., "it's a small world," and Rivers of America. A cool remix of Disney tunes brings melodious sounds to complement the fantastic sights. "Wherever you are, you'll be surrounded by color and music," says David Duffy, Director, Creative Development & Production, Disneyland® Resort.

With a party this epic you'll want to be sure to snap a selfie to remember all the fun. Your party hosts, Mickey and Minnie Mouse, will be ready and dressed in festive new costumes for their Character Experiences. And to make your visit even more sensational, Mickey's Soundsational Parade is back for a limited time to delight all your senses.
